Dear Stakeholders (Apprentices, Employers, Staff and Directors)

We want to express our sincere gratitude to all stakeholders for their continuous support, which has played a crucial role in helping us to achieve a good Ofsted grading with outstanding elements on 3rd October. This fantastic accomplishment would not have been possible without the collaborative efforts of our apprentices, employers, staff and directors.

The report can be found here London Design and Engineering UTC - Open - Find an Inspection Report - Ofsted and highlights our dedication and hard work. It acknowledges the impact of leaders and managers who have “developed a curriculum that meets engineering”. It also praises the support we provide “apprentices enjoy learning in a welcoming and supportive environment in well-equipped classrooms and workshops”.

Ofsted also commended our high quality of teaching, noting that “teaching staff are knowledgeable and highly qualified in the specialist topics they teach” and that “Apprentices, including those with special educational needs and/or disabilities (SEND), are supported well and treated fairly by caring staff”.

These are just some of the many glowing and refreshing comments received. This achievement not only validates our current efforts but also sets a strong foundation for our future growth and development with you all.

Once again, thank you for your support and commitment to our shared goals.

Yours sincerely

Sharna Rolle

Head of Apprenticeships
